

Life is about people. Wherever we go, we form communities and for some reason, high school stands out as really important. We did not choose Bend High School (we thank our parents for that), but still, the friendships we made are powerful and many of them endure.

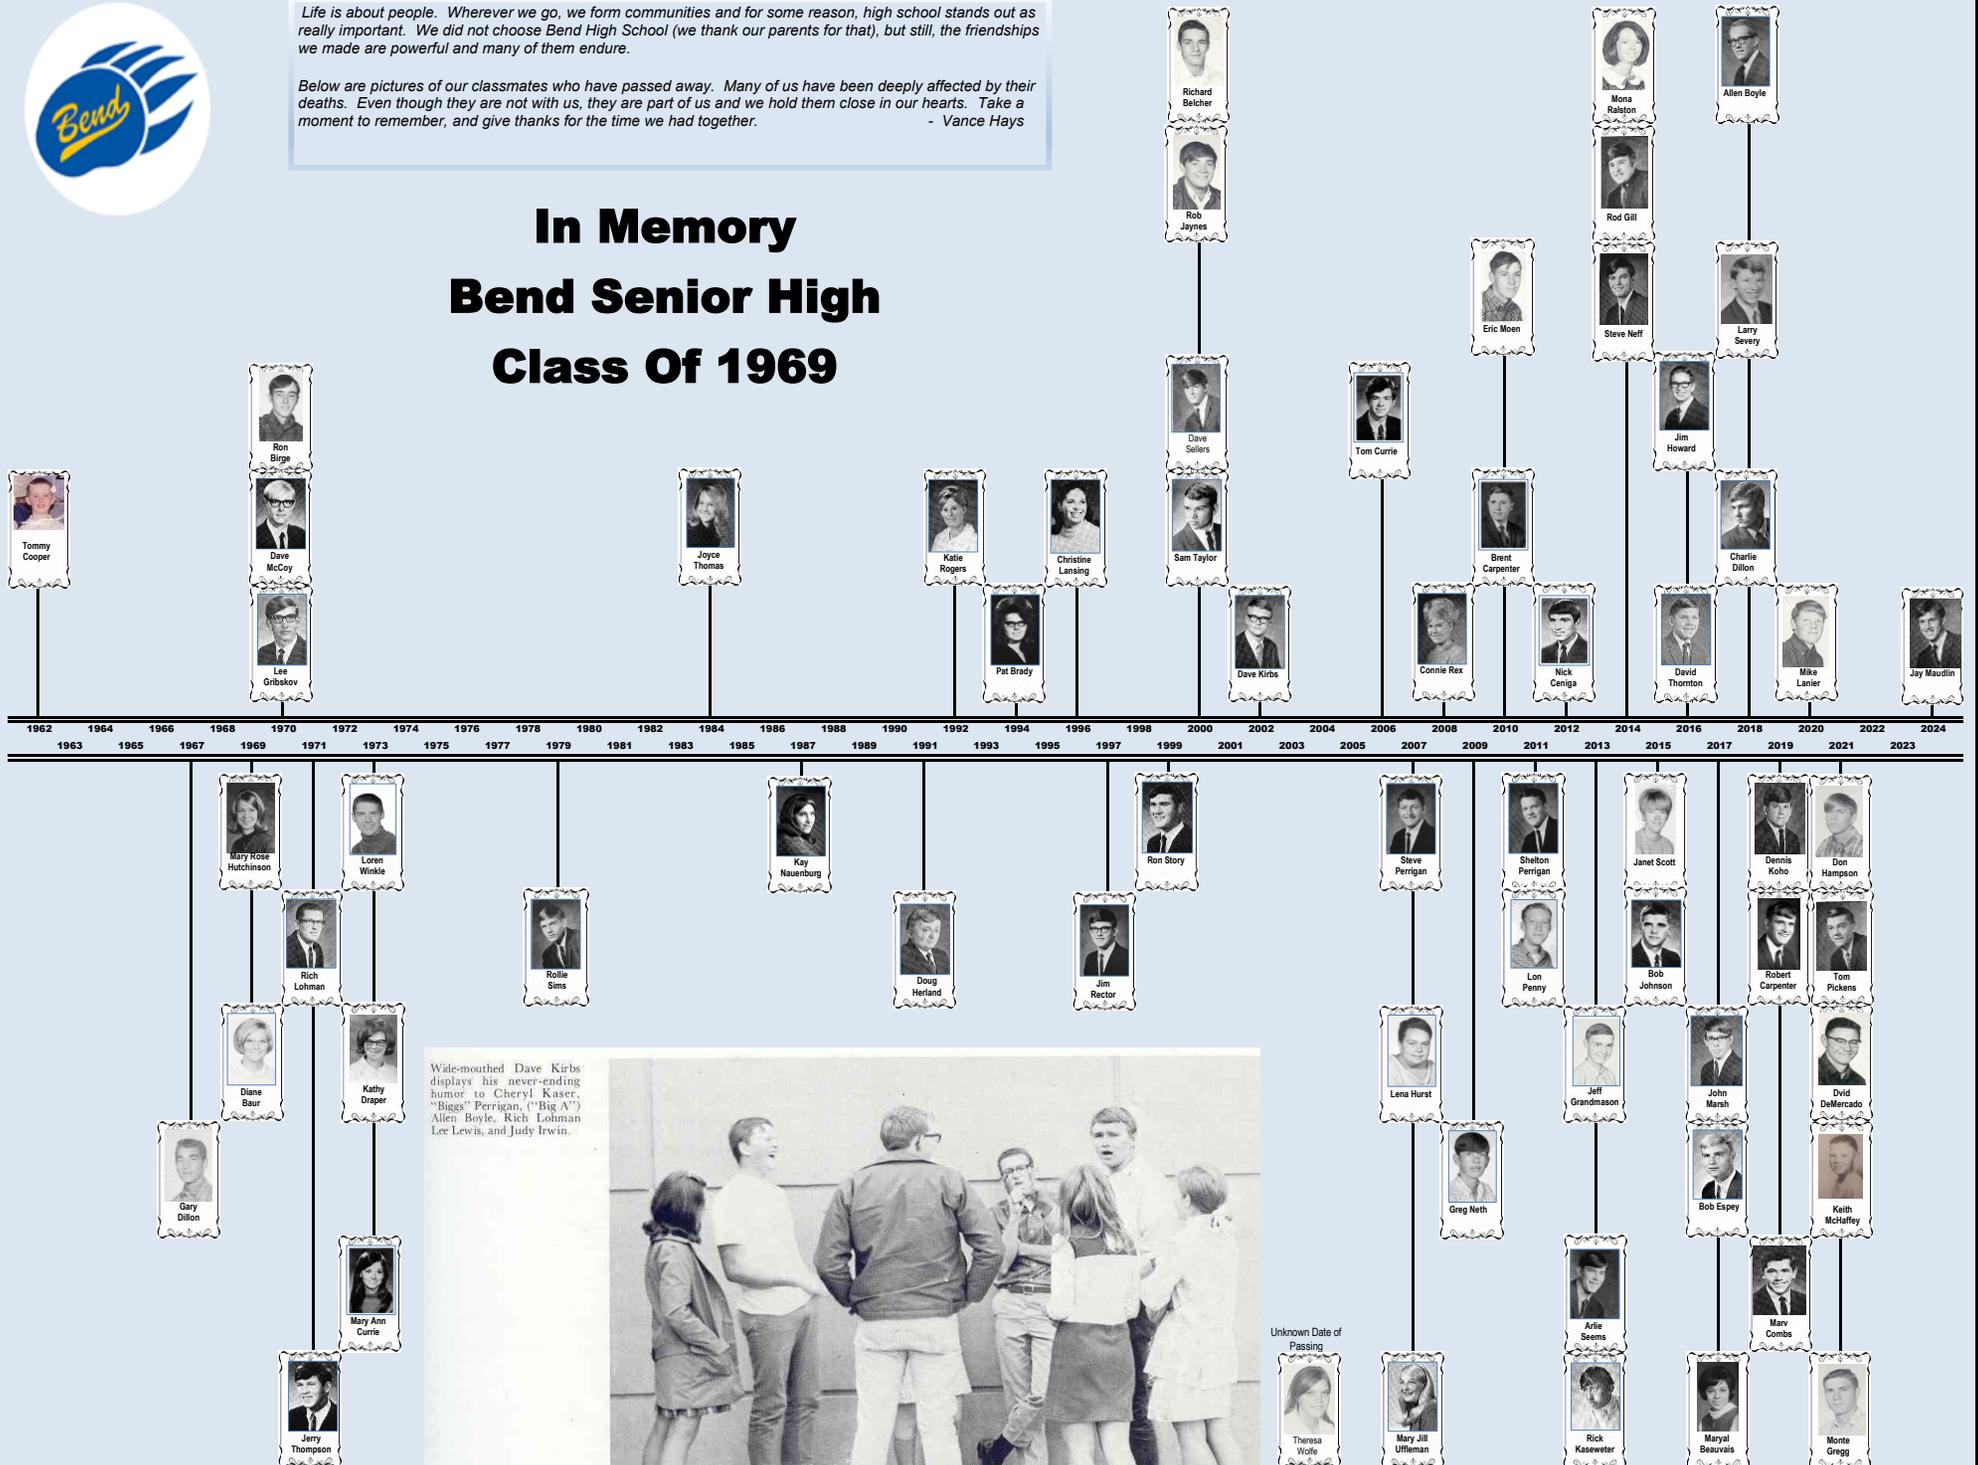

Below are pictures of our classmates who have passed away. Many of us have been deeply affected by their deaths. Even though they are not with us, they are part of us and we hold them close in our hearts. Take a moment to remember, and give thanks for the time we had together.
