Superintendent's Message

Societies have always provided rituals to celebrate the passage of their members into adulthood. During the past half century we in this country have used graduation from high school as our way of celebrating the end of childhood.

Until very recently, commencement has not stood for entrance into the adult world. However, the enfranchisement of the eighteen-year-old has been a significant step in this direction.

We, your parents and teachers, join you in this celebration which has as much significance for our lives as it has for yours.

We rejoice with you in the satisfactory completion of your schooling.

We pray that we have done well enough by you so that you are willing and able to meet the challenges and responsibilities of adulthood. You are the generation that will make or break civilized life as man has strived for it over the years.

Congratulations on your accomplishments and best wishes for the future.
